Indo-German Science Slam

Inviting applications from Slammers from all fields of Science/ Humanities/ Social Sciences for the Grand Science Slam to be held on 27th October 2012 at the Indo-German Urban Mela in Delhi

Eligibility: Alumni or approved fellows of DWIH Member Organisation, who are registered for Ph.D. in a recognized Indian University or are Post-docs (up to 6 years of completion of Ph.D.)

What is a science slam?

A science slam is an unconventional way to bring together passionate researchers and a curious public. The slammers bring science on stage, competing for the hearts of the audience in a performance of maximum ten minutes.

What do you need?

Your courage & skills to present your research in front of an audience followed by an interaction.

How do you benefit?

Apart from a beautiful evening, a new experience and a participation gift, you have a chance to spend two months in a research group an eminent researcher in Germany.

How should a Slam look like?

It is your Science, your Research and you are the best judge of how it should look like. Be Creative. Any format is allowed, from the conventional talk to a stage play or a musical performance. All you have to respect is the time limit of ten minutes.
